

As I understand the proposed changes, LPFM stations could take frequency space from regional stations. Currently, the only station I listen to in my local market is KLOVE, a national/regional broadcaster.

KLOVE provides a music type that is not available in any other station in the San Antonio market, and its music type and language used is non-offensive, and I can allow my children to listen without worrying about offensive lyrics or language.

I have exercised my choice to not listen to the local/regional stations that offer offensive content, and if the rules were changed, and KLOVE were removed from the market, there is a good chance no acceptable option would replace it.

KLOVE serves the public interest in San Antonio by providing music unavailable on commercial stations, and by providing family friendly programming.

Thank You.
